Risk & Insurance Solutions

Producing food, in any sector of the industry, does not come without its fair share of risk and responsibility. While risk can vary radically across the supply chain, companies in every area require breadth and depth of knowledge and a unique set of risk solutions to properly address.

The Cottingham & Butler Food & Agribusiness Practice delivers on providing deep insight, years of expertise and a hands-on approach that helps protect our client's businesses and most valuable assets. Our proprietary Risk Management Assessment (RMA) provides a complete analysis and road-map that optimizes each client's unique insurance program across all coverages, risk transfer options, claims management and loss prevention techniques. At Cottingham & Butler, we act as your consultant rather than just a broker, and it's our responsibility to deliver when called upon.

Alternative Risk Transfer & Captive Programs

Cottingham & Butler is a leading provider in captives and alternative risk solutions. We have the expertise and resources needed to deliver top-of-the-line captive solutions to help best-in-class food and agribusiness companies regain control of their insurance program and turn the expense of insurance into a financial reward.

Claims Control

Our in-house claims professionals understand your expectations, operate under total transparency and ultimately handle your claims as if they were our own.

Program Consistency

By joining a member-owned captive, you get quality, stability and predictably when it comes to your insurance program – ultimately driving down costs and increasing your bottom line.

Proven Results

Cottingham & Butler captives have a strong track record of improving member performance and profitability through specialized safety programs, professional claims handling and appropriate program structure.

Safety Services & Loss Control

Effective risk management means consistently evaluating risks and exposures and implementing procedures to avoid or minimize their impact. At Cottingham & Butler, our dedicated and industry leading food safety, workers' compensation and facility safety specialists work closely with our clients to identify pre-loss exposures and implement custom safety control and loss prevention strategies. The risks faced by food and agribusiness companies are unique, and the goal of our specialized team is to help our clients manage risk and lower the overall cost of insurance.

Facility & Employee

- On-site Loss Control: Detailed facility inspection and program review benchmarks current facility and worker safety programs to provide process improvement guidance
- Safety GAP Analysis: Identifies causes driving loss trends and develops a strategy and safety service plan to mitigate future losses
- Claim Smart Diagnostic: Survey that evaluates current claims processing practices, benchmarks claim management against industry best practices and produces a client-specific training and accountability plan

Food Safety

- Through our strategic partnership with the world's leading food safety consultancy, our clients have access to 17 food safety experts who specialize in Operational, Regulatory Compliance and Reputational Risk Management
- Food Safety Smart Diagnostic: Benchmark current procedures against industry best practices in Product Recall and Crisis Management, Environmental Control and Monitoring, Supply Chain Management; build a SMART plan to improve and correct deficiencies
- Fully HACCP and PCQI certified Brokerage, Safety and Account Management team

Training & Development

- Risk Management Center: Risk mitigation platform that provides clients access to a best practices safety library, training, webinars, educational materials, incident tracking, certificate management, regulatory and compliance resources, HR integration and more. This platform helps manage risk exposures and develop effective workplace safety programs and employee training modules that are proven to help reduce claims, losses and related costs.

Claims Services

Advocacy

When a claim occurs, urgent and effective claim management dictates the outcome and ultimate cost paid by the company. Cottingham & Butler’s team of over 125 claims specialists have breadth and depth of experience in all the claims that affect the food and agribusiness industry. Complex claims, whether addressing a recall, a product liability issue or an injured employee, are assigned to an expert on our team that is tasked with creating the best possible outcome for our client.

Our claims team consists of advocacy experts dedicated to bringing the fullest measure of innovation, transparency and certainty to our clients.

Third-Party Administration

CBCS (Cottingham & Butler Claims Services) is our in-house, third-party property & casualty claims administrator (TPA). We believe that our clients should have direct access to a specialist claims advocate and TPA as it provides transparency and ease of communication with insurance carriers in times of need. CBCS has been handling P&C claims for the Food & Agribusiness industry for over 30 years and provides superior claims service for large deductible, self-insured, program managers and captive clients.

Key claims management differentiators:

- Single Point of Contact - Dedicated Adjuster available to you 24 hours a day
- Reserves set based on our assessment of the claim value rather than worst-case scenario or the insurance company’s historical average
- Claims representatives are litigation management experts
- Nurse case managers are assigned to every lost-time workers’ compensation claim
- Clients receive a minimum of two claim reviews per year
- Team staffed by Legal Counsel

Employee Benefits & Human Resource Solutions

Working with food and agribusiness clients across the U.S., we help companies of every size balance the pressures of offering competitive benefits programs while controlling costs. Our consultative approach focuses on the key drivers impacting your health plan, which ultimately helps you attract, retain and engage employees, keep your health plan compliant and maximize cost savings.

Compliance Services

Our Compliance Consulting team delivers valuable regulatory and compliance support through access to our in-house compliance attorneys, consulting and communications specialists.

Employee Communications

Our extensive knowledge and work in the food and agribusiness industry means that our in-house communications team understands the unique challenges of connecting with your employees. We design custom employee benefits communications to help inform employees and ease HR's administrative burden.

Voluntary Benefits

We help you build an effective product portfolio, educate employees and provide enrollment services.

Wellness & Medical Management

Our in-house wellness team is a leader in providing performance-based wellness solutions and focuses on improving employee health while minimizing employer costs. Our flexible programming and integrated medical management is designed to support employee health, promote employee retention and lower health plan costs.
